What is a Pow-Wow?

A Pow-Wow is a chance for tribes to get together to celebrate who and what they are.

It consists of singing, dancing, drumming, and feasting.

It is also a competition which allows each tribe to show off their particular abilities when it comes to dancing and drumming. Prize money and/or ribbons are awarded to top performers in Adult Men, Adult Women, Teens and Juniors.

The Pow-Wow officially begins with a Grand Entry and ends with the announcement of the contest winners. If you have never been to a Pow-Wow now is the time to broaden your horizons and experience what it is all about.

You will not be disappointed!

In addition to the competition, vendors will be on hand to sell all types of native goods. Traditional foods will be available (for a fee) which will include Indian Tacos (Fry Bread), venison stew (free but donations gladly and willingly accepted), Corn on the Cob, Pumpkin Bread, Squash Bread, and Sunflower Soup.

Come for the day or stay overnight in the area.

We will gladly try to accommodate individual needs.

Space at the hotels is limited and will book very quickly so reserve your room ASAP!
